Dream Daze Dream Daze is a studio album from the British band Electric Light Orchestra, released in May 1981. It was their tenth studio album, and their second to be released on their own label, Magic Records. It was originally released on vinyl, CD, tape, cassette and as a LP record. The CD version was the first ELO album to include the original 1983 CD-ROM version of the album. This version was remastered and released on 28 July 2006. Dream Daze reached No. 2 in the UK Albums Chart, number 11 in the US Billboard 200 and number 16 in Australia. The title track was also released as a single, reaching No. 5 in the UK, No. 16 in Australia and No. 42 in the US. The album had moderate success in Europe, but the singles had little impact in the UK, and it had little success in any other part of the world. The album became the most expensive UK album ever released at the time (2,000 guineas). The album was re-issued in an expanded version in 1985, following the success of "Hold on Sloop" and the release of an EP of the two tracks. In 1989 a remastered reissue was released, with a bonus live track from the Nippon Budokan. In 2000 another CD reissue was released, also included four bonus tracks. Reception Andy Gill of The Independent described the album as "a bright, gloriously understated collection which really caught the ear", adding: "The Eighties are a bridge too far for ELO, but this all-singing, all-dancing, all-floating album is their finest achievement so far." Nick DeRiso of the San Francisco Bay Guardian described it as "another well-crafted melange of songs that are widely available and expertly executed. Most importantly, none of them is a chart product." Track listing All songs written by Jeff Lynne, except where noted. 1980 7" EP
