Exportizer is a software tool that can be used in order to help individuals view, filter and copy a database to the Clipboard, convert it to another format and set bookmarks.

Quick install and intuitive environment The installation process runs smooth and does not bring any surprises. When you are done with it, you come face to face with a fairly simple and plain UI, which consists of a menu bar, several buttons and a panel to display the contents of your database. All types of users can easily navigate through it, as long as they have some basic knowledge about databases. Edit and export databases to the Clipboard or other formats This software utility enables you to upload a pretty long list of file extensions, such as DBF, CSV, MDB, XLS, TXT, DB, HTML, XML, GDB, WJ2 and IB. These can be added with the help of the built-in file browser, as well as the "drag and drop" feature. It is possible to duplicate records and field values, set and remove bookmarks, hide or show particular columns, as well as freeze or unfreeze them, and print the table. Moreover, you can generate a command line, view history, copy the opened file to the Clipboard, using custom file separators, input a limit to the record count and include or exclude column names. You can export a selected table, all of them and entire databases to TXT, CSV, XLS, HTML, XML, DBF, RTF and SQL files, using custom parameters. Conclusion To sum up, Exportizer proves to be an efficient piece of software, dedicated to people who are interests in converting databases from one format to another, as well as editing and managing them. It has a good response time, it does not tamper your computer's performance and the interface is friendly.Q: Login to my app, when I am not on the app? I want to automatically login to my app, when a user enters my application, without opening it. I wrote the following code, but it does not seem to work. The user has to login on the app in order to get to the "splash screen", but after that, he can get to the main screen (if he has already been logged in), and if he is logged in, the AppDelegate will open. -(void) applicationWill 09e8f5149f
