Get the latest version of Devexpress 11.2 here! A: for VS20xx this is not the case, but for VS15xx it is, so it seems that it is.NET Framework 4.6 dependent. .NET Framework 4.6 is supported since November 2019, so you need to switch to latest DevExpress version, since it supports.NET Framework 4.6. Q: Clojure: Specifying the JAR files for a Java project The project's maven dependencies are described in the pom.xml as org.metawidget metawidget-core 4.2.2 I'd like to include (required) runtime dependency jars in my project's repository, however. These are declared in the project's src/main/resources/resources.clj as "org.metawidget" % "metawidget-core" % "4.2.2" % "runtime" So far so good. When building the project as described above I get the following error: Caused by:

java.lang.ClassNotFoundException: org.metawidget.util.Registry Can someone tell me how to correctly specify the jar files of the runtime library? A: Java (the class) is not needed. It is not available in the Java archives (.jar files) (the jar files do not depend on the java.lang.Class library) The problem is that Maven dependency management has the (wrong) assumption, that everything in the dependency repo is a.jar file. This is not true. It is a.pom file.
And the dependency specification must point to a.pom file, not to a.jar file. Try to modify your dependency declaration to this:
"org.metawidget" % "metawidget-core" %
"4.2.2" % "pom" Then Maven will be able to resolve the dependencies properly.
