By Carlos Javier Ortiz Garcia The media magnate Rupert Murdoch has just penned a remarkable newspaper article attacking the country of Colombia in a typically unobscure and poorly-reported rant. On Friday, the chairman and CEO of News Corporation published an essay in The Times of London entitled "One Country too many," in which he uses inapt metaphors and other weasel phrases to criticize Colombia. The piece, titled "Two Countries, too many," does not contain the same name-calling, corruption, and political disdain that we typically expect from Murdoch's column. But while Murdoch's writing on the subject of immigration has already been heralded as exceptional by readers of various newspapers, the piece is not without its flaws. Why I Was the Target of a Media Coup Murdoch's words are attributed to an unnamed "observer" who is likely not him, but he nonetheless gives this observer the benefit of the doubt. In the article, we are told that the observer is "fluent in Spanish." Now, given that I was born and raised in the very city of Medellin (the largest city in the country), I was absolutely thrilled when I learned that The Times of London was willing to pay for my travel and lodging. But unfortunately, as I look at the article and watch Murdoch play the nation of Colombia like a child's game of telephone, I am forced to admit that my insider knowledge is neither an asset nor a disadvantage. In the article, The Times of London is said to be worried about "a flood of immigrants from south and east Asia" who have the "same ancestry" as Colombians. Murdoch

What's new:

The musical composition, "Magic World," was selected by the music conservatory of Nobel laureate, Dr. Karol Szymanowski, for performance by The Cleveland Orchestra in the Cleveland Tri-M Music Series "Karol" Szymanowski Listening and Performance Festival on April 16, 2019. Composed by the composer, Guram Nikitenko, "Magic World" sets off a dynamic musical journey through the concept of New York City as a mystical space. As a composer working with the visual and mobile arts, Nikitenko draws on his experience from the United States, where he was born, and from his home country, Ukraine, to create "Magic World," which features original compositions and newly commissioned arrangements. In creating the piece, Nikitenko commissioned visual artist and photographer, Vanessa Walker, to create an image that would set the atmosphere and theme of the composition. Combining Nikitenko's poetic original pieces with Walker's imagery, audience and players will experience a dynamic, mythic journey that's more than just "sound." The experience of the piece includes: Behind the scenes access to the composition and the images used for inspiration. We are offering a the total package, which includes a signed 16x20 "Magic World" double exposure-separate collage by Walker and a signed score sheet along with a 30 second clip to share and promote the piece. Additionally, the video will have been professionally edited and can be used for a variety of purposes.
