They are both British, the United Kingdom, and the predominant Commonwealth language, but English has a very different meaning to many people outside of the UK or Commonwealth. Many people from the US (native English speakers) call themselves English; it just means they are a native speaker. Ogunmo Ogunmo or Amo was a town in eastern Kajiado County of Kenya. The town is located on the shores of Lake Victoria, and is a major fishing community. In 1925 the British Imperial government leased some of the community lands to the Christians of the Berlin Missionary Society in order to construct a mission compound in Ogunmo.
