The Coming of Tarnished to the Elden Ring

Raised in a small village, the boy named Tarnished was the only one who hung out with the monsters and was the only one who had not been corrupted by the Elden Ring. However, despite his unwavering moral background, Tarnished was at the center of a battle between light and darkness. Wherever he went, the power of the darkness hung like a shadow over him.

The blood of the Elden Masters flowed in battle, and it mingled with the blood of the monster slaves, resulting in a new form that had neither spiritual innocence nor corruption. This new creature was unlike any other being known to men, but the more Tarnished explored its true nature, the more he discovered that it was everything and nothing. He found his place in the world, and hid from the light and shadows of the world. Thus, the darkness of the dark continent, Eilius, was born.

A year has passed, but the people living in the darkness in the shadow of Eilius do not know what has happened.

Tarnished has a weak body when he visited a town in the Elden Ring, and he lost all his possessions. Amazed and worried at what had happened, the very next day he became a mindless "monk" who could not remember anything and who was ruthlessly exiled.

Since then, he has lived in a place-of-raging-blood in the center of the darkness of Eilius. However, even if he did not know it, his body was changed when the darkness and light of the Elden Ring merged, and he gained a new expression of blood and flesh. He has managed to endure, and he has seen countless sights...

Then, the day of the first cut arrived. You will experience cut scenes and the battles that he fought against the monsters.

You will be able to learn about an entire new world, where the Elden Ring has established rule; and where, within that world, a new story is

Can I forget to write down the activation information? I mean, I know I can remember, but it may not be clear to the other gamers, maybe some of them will just get away. Also, is this the only game that can be activated through the internet? The activation window is just straight away and not time limited? That's how I was told to activate, so I'm not sure, but... Select the account you wish to activate. Edit the account. Set the password. Press the verify activation button. Set the ICQ. Set the mail you wish to receive the key (it's not a standard mail but a notification email only you can check). I have some doubts about the mail I set, because I was told to choose an email and a phone number, however, I just went to the skype, and put the mail I usually use for that, the one I created on my skype. Does this seem right for the activation? I now have yet another "playtime enhanced" copy of Dreamland Chronicles III running on my media server, and I seem to be one of the few people around who don't suffer from "playtime enhanced" syndrome after closing the game and returning to it later. My offer: if you can send me the activation codes for Dreamland Chronicles III, I'll credit you +1 playtime on Dreamland Chronicles III: The Lost Lands. This offer stands until the end of October. I'm planning on gathering as many codes as possible, so this offer is limited, and probably last a day or two.
