For those of you wondering what goodies to expect this year - and you should be - you can get an idea at the inaugural JewelCon event coming to Boston on December 3. If you are in the area, I hope you can make it, and the link above will take you to a list of the events happening as well as a handy store locator. Sponsored by the American Gem Society, JewelCon begins next week in Boston and runs through December. JewelCons are expensive - tickets are usually $50 - because they are intended to be a quiet, intimate get-together to chat with fellow craftspeople, all while you have the opportunity to try on the awesome jewelry you see on display. And while you're there to try on the newest designs from some of the most respected jewelry-making designers in the craft, you can certainly learn. The jewelry industry is a fast-paced one, but what often isn't mentioned as much is the quality of the craftspeople who design and make the jewelry. The
