Things like that: In the middle of a hotel corridor, every once in a while, you find a table, or some furniture, or a desk, or some trash, or a mirror that you can't even see, or a sound that you won't understand, or a book, or a plant, or a poster, or a chair, or a bottle, or a sink, or a shelf, or a mirror, or anything, and all of these, all these things that didn't help you find a single room, where were they all? That means there are other rooms, other rooms, there are more rooms, and I don't know how many, I don't know if there are dozens, or hundreds, or thousands, or maybe millions of rooms, in my hotel, I have no idea, so, when you ask the person: "Where is this?", he'll answer: "Where are you looking?", which means that he'll tell you: "Wherever you were", which means, in that case, that he won't be able to help you, he'll be able to give you the name of the room that
